

DREAM ITEM FOR DAVY JONES' LOCKER—A $150,000 Chrysler dream car, which took more than two years to design and build, went down with the ill-fated Italian liner Andrea Doria. The car had no door or front posts, but cantilever arches on each side. However, the dream model, designed in America and hand-built in Italy by Chia, famed Turin sports car maker, was insured.

IN THE DOGHOUSE—Canadian soldiers at Camp Gagetown, New Brunswick, have developed a novel punishment for GI's involved in traffic mishaps and other minor misdeeds. Penalty is a spell in the doghouse, built especially for the purpose. Above, S/Sgt. Bob Weatherill, from Coldwater, Ontario, tests the structure, with condolences being offered by Sgt. Hodge Interested In Eldorado Oil Pool, Post-Dispatch Reports

A news story reporting that Orville Hodge, ousted Illinois state auditor, had invested $26,500 in an oil venture in the Eldorado field, was carried in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch Friday of last week.

The story apparently was prompted by the wide-spread interest in the case of Hodge, who has been indicted by state and federal grand juries in connection with alleged discrepancies in funds of the auditor's office, amounting to several hundred thousand dollars.

The story is of local interest, since it involves residents of this area, but most of the background information is generally known, having had routine handling in The Daily Register and other newspapers.

Hodge, according to the story, invested $26,500 in oil leases, acquiring a one-sixty-fourth interest in 17 wells in the Eldorado pool, which was developed by the John Stelle Associates, recently dissolved.

$11,500 in Royalties
About $6,500 of Hodge's investment went into "dry holes" but the remainder gave him a share in producing wells, and he has received about $11,500 in royalties, less assessments for his share of operating expenses, the Post-Dispatch story stated.

The story related that John Stelle, former Governor of Illinois, George Edward Day, former state purchasing agent, J. Cecil Sullivan, Harrisburg politician, Ralph Choiser, former Saline county judge, and Choiser's two brothers, Eugene and Dr. John Choiser organized a syndicate in 1953 to deal in oil and gas leases in Saline county.

Hodge joined the group by purchasing a share of Sullivan's interest, the Post-Dispatch stated. The Post-Dispatch story continues: Purchased Sullivan Interest.

"Hodge and I were personal friends," Sullivan told the Post-Dispatch. (Continued on Page Five)

Rains Hit First Day of Fair; Hold One Show

Livestock Judging Starts Tomorrow; Kids Day Tuesday

Rains, both locally and at a distance from Harrisburg, put a crimp in the opening day of the Saline County Fair.

The program called for two shows Sunday—one in the afternoon and another last night—featuring the Congress of Canadian Daredevils, an automobile and motorcycle thrill show.

The heavy rainfall of Saturday night and Sunday morning made the fairground track one big mud-hole. As quickly as possible work was started on the track to shove away the mud and turn up dry dirt, but it wasn't possible to get the track in condition for the afternoon show.

However, if the track had been usable, there wouldn't have been a show as the Daredevils, en route from another performance, were held up several hours by a rain-storm in Iowa.

One or two of the automobiles appeared at the fairgrounds early in the afternoon and other vehicles arrived throughout the late afternoon and early evening.

By show time last night a sufficient number of the Daredevils were on hand to get the performance started and others arrived during the evening in time to keep the show going. A full performance was staged.

The attendance was held down also by the weather as many didn't expect a show to be put on even Sunday night. Usually the thrill show is one of the best attended of the entire fair, but only a comparative few were present last night.

Tonight's entertainment features Grand Ole Opry stars—Lonzo and Oscar, Judy Lynn, the Wilburn Brothers, Radio Dot and Smokey, Pat Kelly and others.

Today was entry day at the fair with entries in all departments to be completed by 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Judging of livestock starts Tuesday with 4-H club animals to be judged starting at 9 a. m. Curt Taylor, farm adviser for Pope-Hardin counties, will be the judge.

Tuesday also is Kids Day, with free admission at the gate until 5 p. m. and all carnival rides during the afternoon will be 10 cents each.

19 Killed by Fiery Blast Which Follows Oil Refinery Blaze

DUMAS, Tex. — One tank of asphalt blazed brightly today but firemen and calm winds had subdued the main oil refinery fire that exploded a huge tank of pentane and killed 19 men in a fiery holocaust.

The white hot explosion Sunday injured 31 other persons, including an 11-year-old boy. Should the wind spring up suddenly from the north today, the flaming asphalt tank would endanger a 75-million-dollar field of gasoline and oil tanks.

But the Weather Bureau said the wind would remain calm at least until later today. Residents in this Texas Pan-handle town of 10,000 are not concerned about the monetary loss. They are heartless because 10 firemen and 9 oil field workers burned to death from the flaming fuel's intense heat.

The oil workers and firemen, who were volunteers, were fighting a fire Sunday in the vent of a

New Contract Ends Four-Week Strike at Joppa

One-Year Pact Calls for 13-Cent An Hour Increase

JOPPO, Ill. — A four-week strike of operating engineers at the Joppa, Ill., steam electric plant ended this morning.

Federal Mediator A. M. Thompson, Marion, said the workers, members of Local 314, agreed to a new one-year contract extending until next July 1.

The contract calls for a 13-cent an hour across the board pay increase, one and one-quarter time for the seventh calendar day for coal haulers, and a 2-cent bonus pay increase for second and third shift workers.

Thompson said the workers are scheduled to return to their jobs Tuesday morning.

Latest negotiations broke off Friday afternoon. The main point of disagreement was the union's insistence on a one-year contract. Thompson says Electric Energy Inc. which operates the plant agreed to the one-year pact Sunday.

During the strike which began June 30 supervisory employees have been operating the plant. It supplies power to the atomic energy plant in Kentucky.

2,500 Attend Opening of Tison-Hall New Building

Approximately 2,500 people from Saline and neighboring counties attended the grand opening of the new Tison & Hall Concrete Products office building and display room Saturday and Sunday, with Mrs. Carl Rude of Harrisburg winning the grand prize, 1200 Beauty Stone, in the contest to guess the number of Beauty Stone manufactured by the firm. Her guess was 134,562, and the correct number was 134,666.

The next four places in the contest were ties, and J. O. Hall, a partner in the firm with Delmas Tison, asked today that the four contestants be at the plant at 8 a. m. Wednesday to draw for places. Second place winner will receive an electric lawn trimmer, and third, fourth, and fifth places will receive a plastic modern design bucket chair.

Other prizewinners, who were determined by drawing from registrations, are as follows: James E. Davis, Box 473, Eldorado, a wicker set; George Brouillette, RFD 4, Harrisburg, a table lamp; Raymond D. Johnson, Box 53, Harrisburg, an electric drill; Tom Gram, 22 West Walnut, Harrisburg, two wall plaques; and Nellie Sweat, Harrisburg, a pair of roller skates.

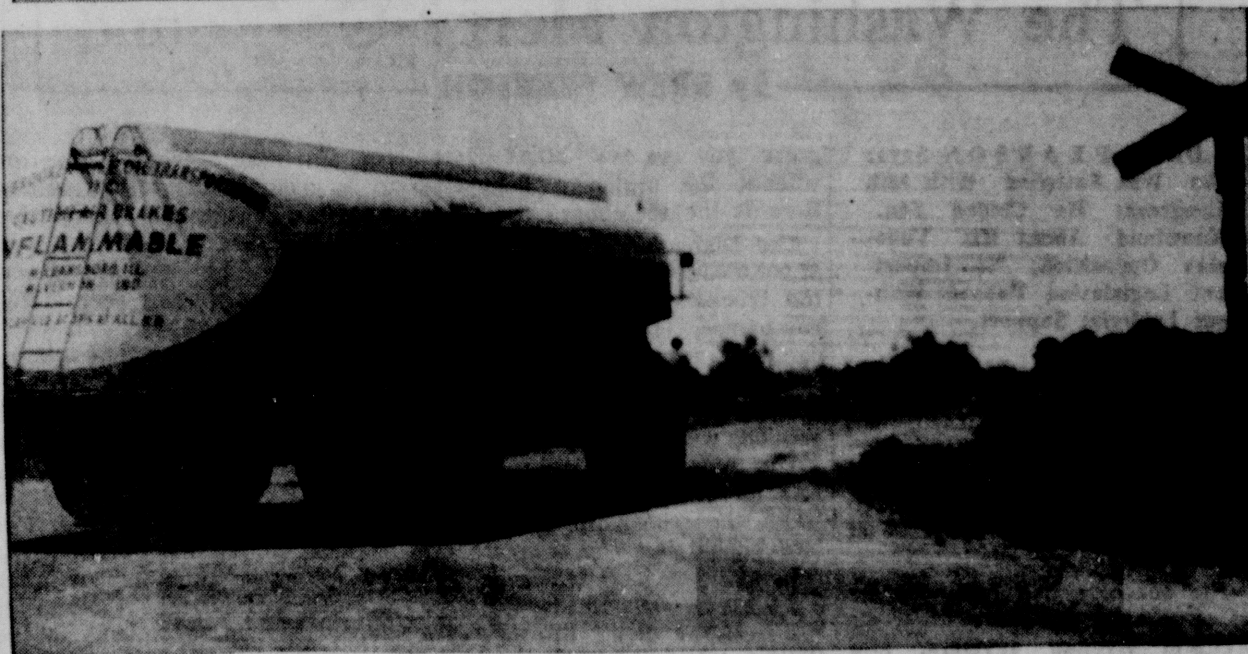

Tison and Hall were very pleased with the huge turnout, and expressed their thanks to all those who attended and to those who sent the beautiful flower arrangements to the festivities.

Auto Mechanics End Strike at W. Frankfort

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill. — Auto mechanics were scheduled to return to work today ending a six-week strike.

A union spokesman said the new contract is for three years and includes a 21-cent hourly pay increase and a reduction of the work week from 44 hours to 40.

Demand International Control of Suez Canal

OIL TRANSPORTS ARE ROLLING these days on the Harco road between the Galatia oil field and Route 13, as shown above, and the weights of these vehicles after they have picked up oil from the field was the subject of a special meeting of the Saline County Board of Supervisors today. The county board has put a load limit of five gross tons per axle on all trucks using the road and the oil people are protesting.

Boy Saves Family Of Possible Bites By Rattlesnake

Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Durfee and children of Pontiac, Mich., are visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Killman of Harrisburg, and with his relatives at Carrier Mills.

Last week Mr. and Mrs. Durfee's oldest son, Dallas, 13, was credited with saving his family from possible rattlesnake bites when he and his parents were returning home about 9 p. m.

Dallas stated that he heard "what sounded like a box of matches shaking" as he got out of the car, and on his way to the porch saw the snake lying on the walk only inches from the house. Mr. Durfee snatched a stick and broke the back of the two-foot long Massasauga rattler.

Five-Year-Old Girl Fatally Injured Near Crossville

Sharon June Taylor, five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor of RFD 2, Crossville, in the Phillipsburg community, was fatally injured yesterday at 2:20 p. m. She was swinging in a rope swing tied to a steel frame at her home when the frame toppled over, falling on her back. She suffered a broken back and died en route to the Carmi Township hospital at 2:45 p. m.

Sharon is survived by her parents; one brother, Donald, age 2, and three sisters: Donna, 8, Judy, 7, and Jeannie, 4; also grandfathers Jim Phelps, Galatia, and Isaac Taylor, of Keosauqua, Ill.

The body has been returned to Eldorado and lies in state at the Bean and Tanner funeral home. Services will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the Star General Baptist church north of Eldorado. Rev. Don Rister will officiate and burial will be in the Douglas cemetery.

Robinson Voters Reject Sales Tax

ROBINSON, Ill. — Voters here defeated a 1-cent city sales tax proposal.

The margin in the election Saturday was about 5-1 against the measure as more than 1,000 voters went to the polls.

Mayor C. W. Boyert and Finance Chairman Chester Ritchie said the money was needed for street and other improvements.

Oil Producers Agree to Pay 80 Per Cent of Harco Road Damage

County to Halt Enforcement Of Load Limit

Oil men interested in production in the field west of Galatia this morning agreed to pay 80 per cent of an estimated $2,500 damage to the Harco road, over which oil transports travel.

As a result, enforcement of a five gross tons per axle load limit on the blacktop road will be halted.

The actions took place this morning at a special meeting of the Saline County Board of Supervisors, called by Chairman Howard Patterson after oil producers and truckers told Brown, members of the Road and Bridge committee of the board, and others that they felt the load limit was an injustice.

Transports going into the field to load with oil carried from 80 to 120 barrels and the load limit cut down the oil one could carry by approximately one-half. Spokesmen said this action would definitely hurt oil production in the area.

Because the board last month set the load limit by resolution, the board was called into the special meeting to hear the oil men. There were 11 present, including representatives of the following companies: Calvert, Gulf, Sohio Pipeline, Phillips, the Claybrook Transport Service of McLeansboro, which does most of the hauling, and the Hill Truck Service.

The agreement reached by the oil men and approved by the board of supervisors provided that the oil producers be responsible for the payment of the 80 per cent of the $2,500 damage, if the county rescinds its five-ton load limit.

It was agreed that the present situation be taken care of by this 80 per cent and that if any more instances of damage arise on this road, that meetings similar to today's could be called to work out a settlement.

At Brown's suggestion, enforcement of the load limit was suspended until Sept. 16, the date of the regular board meeting, and if the money is turned into a special fund in the county treasurer's office by that time, the resolution will be rescinded. The oil men said it would be about two weeks before the money would be available.

Also approved was a motion that charges against three truckers charged with exceeding the load limit on the road be dropped.

British Halt Arms to Egypt; Talks Continue

Naval Plans Drawn Up to Enforce Free Passage

LONDON — Britain halted all arms shipments to Egypt today and demanded that the Suez Canal be put under international control so no single "unfettered" nation could block its lifeline.

Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden announced an immediate embargo on British arms shipments to Cairo while Big Three diplomats still were hammering out an answer to Egypt's seizure of the canal last Thursday.

Informed sources said the top-level talks had the twin objectives of immediate steps to enforce free passage through the canal and longer-range measures to internationalize it.

Cairo Radio said, meanwhile, that the Egyptian president conferred for an hour and a half today with U. S. Ambassador Henry Byroade. It did not say what was discussed.

Naval plans were drawn up to carry out the first objective should an emergency arise.

For the second objective, representatives of the United States, Britain and France readied a proposal for an international "board of directors" for the canal, probably including the Western Big Three plus the Soviet Union and other major maritime powers.

A high Communist source in London told United Press that Moscow favors an "international solution" to the Suez problem. He said the Kremlin would take part in talks to work out the issue of guaranteed passage for all ships through the canal. He added such a solution would not prejudice Egypt's right to sovereignty over the Suez waterway.

An "Apprentice Dictator" Eden called the tune for the move in a firm statement to the House of Commons after he lunched with U. S. Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy, French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and his own Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, who are in the second day of emergency Suez talks.

"No arrangements for the future of this great international waterway could be acceptable to her majesty's government which would leave it in the unfettered control of a single power which could, as recent events have shown, exploit it purely for purposes of national policy," Eden said.

Then he announced that all British shipments of war material to Egypt had been halted. Egypt had received arms under the 1950 three-power declaration of Britain, the United States and France which guaranteed a balance of military power.

Stassen Meets With President

GETTYSBURG, Pa. — Harold E. Stassen conferred privately with President Eisenhower at the President's farm home here today.

But Stassen refused to say whether their surprise meeting concerned his attempt to dump Vice President Richard M. Nixon from the Republican ticket.

Stassen, White House disarmament adviser, returned to Washington immediately after his conference with the President.

It was their first private meeting since Stassen set off a sharp political controversy last Monday by proposing that the Republicans nominate Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts instead of Nixon for Mr. Eisenhower's running mate.

Stassen told reporters after his meeting with the President: "Please don't try to imply or fish . . . I'll give no characterization of our talk."

He refused to say whether the President asked him to stop his "dumb Nixon" efforts, or whether he would be leaving his Cabinet post as disarmament adviser.

Co-Existence

Editorial — By BRUCE BLOSSAT

Some people object to the term
"co-existence" because they say it is a Russian invention and if we use it we're letting them call the tune. Probably things are not quite like that.

To begin with, co-existence is not a doctrine which the Soviet Union is urging us to accept. It is a fact of international life, dictated by the military stalemate which grows out of a rough balance in nuclear weapons.

The truly knowledgeable men in the free world understand this, and give no special credit to Moscow for taking any lead.

They surely grasp, too, that as the Kremlin uses the term, coexistence means living side by side with the West without a shooting war, but with combat still blazing on the economic and political fronts.

Even the neutral or uncommited nations like India must have seen enough of Russia's foreign incursions to realize that as Moscow defines it co-existence doesn't mean sitting quietly by the home fires with pipe and slippers.

Thus in fact co-existence is a label characterizing a military stalemate which would exist whether or not that tag were applied.
And it is also a cloak behind which the Soviet Union feverishly pursues its goals of conquest on every other front but the military.

At this point some might argue:
"Well, isn't the resulting peril sufficient therefore to require us to repudiate 'co-existence'?"

The answer probably is, "no."
Those who are easily won by labels most likely would be fooled by some other cloak if not this one. Those with real understanding of Communist realities, which would include ourselves, never have doubted the limited meaning of the term.

We must do our best, as we may not have so far, to tell others about those limits. It would not be wise to assume at any stage that Russia is not capable of luring more millions by daubing fresh colors on its "co-existence" package.

Too, we must press the battle ceaselessly on the political and economic fronts, as our adversaries are doing. In these fields there never will be rest on this globe until freedom has won or lost.
Full co-existence between freedom and tyranny is impossible. So long as a square mile of free or oppressed soil exists, it is a threat to the rival way of life and effort will be made to blot it out.

So long as we live in accord with that hard truth, so long as we keep telling the world of the limited, military meaning of "coexistence," we need not fear that the term holds danger for us. Freedom cannot be beaten by a word, least of all by such a word as that.
Free peoples can only defeat themselves — by inaction, failure of imagination, timidity and a falling into careless slumber.

FBI Could Deter Kidnapers

Under present law the FBI can enter a kidnaping case when the victim is known to have been transported over state lines, or in any event after seven days, by which time it is assumed he has been so transported.

It is a pity the law does not make that assumption immediately. The knowledge that the FBI is the instant adversary might discourage most would-be kidnapers from perpetrating this cruel crime.

Those who have followed the current Peter Weinberger kidnaping on Long Island realize afresh the terrible anguish it brings to the victim's family. It hardly seems enough that penalties are extreme.
Many must wish that the fullest resources of the law could be thrown against kidnapers from the outset.

The FBI has a brilliant record of 457 solutions out of 459 kidnapings over the years. But either the newest perpetrators don't read statistics or they were too desperate or foolhardy to care.

Most likely they will be caught.
It would have been better had they been afraid to try.

"Touche, Harold"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
The Was Satisfied With 84th
Congress; He Chided Sen.
Knowland About His Yugo-slav Opposition; No Important Legislation Passed Without Lobbyist Support.

WASHINGTON. — In his last meeting with GOP leaders just before Congress adjourned, the President said he was "satisfied" with the legislative record of the 84th Congress, though not exactly jubilant about the boxscore of accomplishment.

The boxscore had been prepared on charts by some of Ike's Madison Avenue advisers, and GOP leaders, looking over Ike's shoulder, could see in separate columns the major bills that had:
(1) passed the House, (2) passed the Senate, and (3) received the President's signature.

Scanning these charts, Eisenhower told the leaders:

"I want to thank each of you for all you did to get our program through the Congress. It was a tough job, and I appreciate your efforts. Of course, I didn't get everything I hoped for. But on the whole I am satisfied with the record."

"We're in pretty good shape," he added, apparently meaning that the Republican party could confidently face the coming campaign. However, he expressed disappointment over the Senate's restriction of foreign aid funds, also the scuttling of the civil rights bill.

There were laughs as he referred to the foreign aid battle in which Senate GOP Leader William Knowland helped defeat the President's urgent request for aid to Yugoslavia. Knowland himself managed to muster a grin when Ike, looking squarely at him, declared:

"No, I can't say that I am satisfied with the Senate action."

He expressed hope that a compromise could be worked out by Senate and House joint conferees to remove the Senate hurdle on any new military aid to Yugoslavia.

Knowland reported that the "practical difficulties of the threatened filibuster" dashed any hope of Senate action on the civil rights bill, already approved by the House.

"With the kind of organized southern opposition we face, there just isn't time to get the bill through the Senate," said Knowland. "Maybe if we had taken it up earlier we would have had a chance, but there was no opportunity with other pressing measures."

"Well, I certainly hope something can be done in the next Congress," the President remarked.
"We cannot abandon the responsibility of protecting the rights of minorities. It is not an extreme bill. In fact, it is a very moderate one in my opinion. I can't understand all the fuss about it."

NEWSMAN'S SUMMARY

Summarizing the work of Congress from a newsman's sideline,
I would say that the 84th Congress was more than usually representative of the people. When the people raise Cain with Congress, the Congress listens. When the people are apathetic, Congress listens to the lobbyists.

This Congress more than most I have watched listened to the lobbysts. Some lobbyists are bad, some are good. But if you look over the record of the 84th Congress you see few bills passed without the urging of lobbyists.

Here is the scorecard:

The Highway Bill — Costing $7,000,000,000 was put across by the truckers, the auto and tire companies, the gasoline companies, and the Teamsters Union. It's a good bill, but it would not have passed, at least at this session, without lobbyist support.

The School Construction Bill — Far more important than highways, the school bill had no lobbies behind it. The teachers are not effective. School children don't know how to lobby. The White House didn't lift its voice audibly while the school debate was on. The bill did not pass.

Hells Canyon — A big federal dam on the last big damsite remaining in the U. S. A. was blocked by private utility lobbies and powerful White House lobbyists who camped out on Capitol Hill and buttonholed wavering senators. If the White House had exerted half as much effort for the school bill as it did blocking Hells Canyon, school children would have the promise of new buildings as they start to school in September.

The Farm Bill — Was passed, after much hassling, because of the farm lobbyists, among the most potent in the nation.

Old Age Pensions — The pension age for women was lowered and disability payments broadened over the protest of the administration. This came about as a result of pressure from labor and older groups.

Minimum Wages — Were increased from 75 cents to one dollar at the insistence of liberal Democrats and labor unions. The administration wanted only 90 cents. Unions had little to gain from pushing the bill because most of their members get higher wages. But they wanted to lift the general buying power of the nation.

The Clean Elections Bill — Had no lobbyists behind it. Phil Graham, publisher of the Washington Post, and Senator Hennings of Missouri, pushed it relentlessly.

but any Senate leaders who are in a position to get big money from big business or big oil are loath to clean up campaign contributions. The Republicans and Sen. Lyndon Johnson, Texas Democrat, both benefit.

Investigation of Lobbying — Obviously there were no lobbyists standing in line to push an investigation of themselves. So this investigation has been scraping slowly through the Washington summer without even revealing its most sensational information—a $5,000 check from Howard Keck of Superior Oil to the Eisenhower dinner right in the middle of the Senate gas debate. Superior Oil has now been indicted, but in connection with the $2,500 which Senator Case rejected, not the $5,000 which the Ike committee kept.

Note — Only important measure which passed without lobbyist support was the foreign aid bill, and it had the most effective voice in the nation — that of the White House — behind it.

Maternity Clothes Banned

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)—The city-owned Memphis Light, Gas and Water Division today notified pregnant married women employees that they are to resign immediately if they want to wear maternity clothes. "It seems to be the fact that as soon as a young girl becomes pregnant she must put on maternity clothes," the notice said.
But they continue working until it is embarrassing to the employees, to say nothing of the customers.
Maternity clothes or not, women employees must resign after the fourth month of pregnancy, the utility officials added.

Skating Star to Appear at Williamson Fair

One of America's great feminine skaters will star in Holiday On Ice, the ice show that will be the feature attraction at the Williamson County fair centennial homecoming.

She is Sonya Kaye, a former National figure-skating champion and one of this nation's top world representatives having been selected for the Olympic team of 1952.

Miss Kaye entered competition for the first time in 1945. In 1949 she won the National Junior Championship. The following year she captured the North American Championship and came in second in World competition which led to a place on the Olympic team in 1952. At this point Miss Kaye figured that her family had carried enough of the burden. She estimates that it had cost her family $23,000 for her lessons in 10 years as an amateur, so she turned professional.

In Holiday On Ice she will skate a "pair routine" with Pacific Coast champion, Bill Blocker, in an elaborately staged scene called "Music for Americans," and as "Holiday's Olympic Sweetheart" she will demonstrate the skill that won her so many titles.

Holiday On Ice with a cast of over 100 international skaters will be on the Centennial Fair for three days, August 7, 8, and 9 giving a performance each night at 8 o'clock.

From Marion the show will move on to the State Fair in Springfield.

Hats Go to New Heights for Fall

Hats achieve height this fall, abandoning the width of last spring. We show the upward trend here in pretty, wearable hats by top designers. Stove-pipe cloche (upper left) is in capucine velours set on a roll-brim of peach-toned velvet. This is by Chanda. John Fredericks' high toque of peacock blue furry-surfaced felt (center) is inset with bands of navy velvet ribbon. From Christian Dior's American collection comes this swan cap (upper right) of snowy white plumage in a rounded pillbox with two forward-curving wings. Walter Florell's "Irene Castle" cloche (lower left) is caramel felt, has high-draped crown of caramel-and-white pin-striped velvet. Furry white felt is used by Chanda (center) for this high-crowned, squared cloche corded in white satin and sparkling with rhinestone pin. Small swirl-draped toque of olive green (lower right) by Christian Dior is set on narrow band of matching olive green felt. Glitter for fall is represented by rhinestones and colored sequins.

Gale Hits English Channel; 19 Dead

LONDON — The death toll in the worst English Channel storm of the century rose to 19 today but British officials said some of the 13 yachts missing in 90-mile gales were turning up in various ports.

The yachts, all part of a cross-channel race, disappeared in the gales that sank two ships, battered countless others and wrought heavy damage along the French and British coasts. Some of the yachts found today were badly battered, their masts broken.

A naval spokesman said he had "no grounds for thinking that any other yachts are in trouble or unaccounted for" since others are still at sea, racing.

The sudden gale struck the channel Sunday, catching hundreds of "Sunday sailors" in small pleasure boats by surprise, along with more experienced crews of commercial vessels. Several yachts and a large sailing ship capsized and sank. A British steamer also heeled over, tossing its crew into the raging waters.

Winds of 90 miles an hour whipped up mountainous waves and battered the English coast, toppling trees and power lines.

Six of the known dead were drowned at sea. Five others were motorists whose cars were crushed by falling trees. A shipyard worker was blown off a vessel in drydock and fell to his death.

Bureau Reports Progress on Oil From Coal, Shale

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bureau of Mines reported today that in the near future production of oil from shale and coal may begin to supplement U. S. oil supplies.

"New reserves of petroleum in the ground are being discovered only with increasing effort and expense," the bureau said in the last of a series of reports on shale and coal research.

Under a war-time act passed in 1934, the bureau has carried on extensive research to develop methods for producing oil from both coal and oil shale. The act expired last year, but the bureau is carrying on limited work in both fields under its regular functions.

During the special research period the bureau perfected methods for producing oil from both coal and oil shale. The problem now is to get the costs down to compete with oil taken from the ground.

Most experts agree that producing oil from shale will compete with the costs of taking it from the ground sooner than methods of making oil from coal.

State Police Academy To Suspend After Graduation of Class

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — The Illinois state police training academy will suspend operations here Friday after graduation of the current class of 44 candidates for state police duty.

State police officials said only 17 of the 44 applicants will be required to bring the force to its full strength of 800. The remaining applicants will be placed on an eligible list to fill vacancies when they occur.

The class completing the four-week training program Friday includes Richard Thompson, 26, son of State Police Sgt. William Thompson, Collinsville, an instructor at the academy.

Begin Tests Soon On Faster-Than-Sound Bomber

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first bomber in the United States, and possibly in the world, designed to fly faster than sound will begin test flights in about three months.

Authoritative sources who disclosed this today said that Gen. Nathan F. Twining, Air Force chief of staff, recently inspected the radical new aircraft on the production line at the Fort Worth, Tex., plant of General Dynamics Corporation's Convair division.

The bomber is the B58 Hustler, a delta or triangular-winged craft after the fashion of the new F102 interceptor plane. It is powered by four General Electric J79 engines. These engines deliver an estimated 15,000 pounds of thrust each and are used in the new 1,400-mile-an-hour F104 fighter plane.

The speed of the B58 is a closely held secret, but informed sources indicate that it may attain 900 to 1,000 miles an hour. This would make it upwards of 400 miles an hour faster than present American bombers which cannot exceed the speed of sound.

The speed of sound is 660 miles an hour at high altitude.

Arms' Supervisory Certificate Is Revoked by State Board

SPRINGFIELD (U)—The State Teachers Certification Board Friday revoked the supervisory certificate of Ernest R. Arms, Crab Orchard High School principal on grounds of unprofessional conduct.

The board did not revoke Arms' teaching certificate. Arms can appeal the board's decision to the courts.

The board acted after a two-day hearing conducted by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Vernon L. Nickell.

Williamson County Superintendent of Schools Russell Emery had suspended Arms' teaching certificate and recommended revocation of his supervisory certificate for "incompetency, insubordination, mishandling of school funds and unprofessional conduct."

Four of the seven members of the Crab Orchard Unit School District No. 3 board, however, testified in Arms' support.

Emery's charges were the latest development in a controversy that started in 1954.

Arms, 43, is former superintendent of the Crab Orchard District, which office he held in addition to his duties as school principal and teacher.

The board of Education in October, 1954, notified Arms of his dismissal as superintendent because of alleged mismanagement of his office.

The Williamson County Circuit Court, however, reversed the dismissal in February, 1955. The board later dismissed Arms again on slightly different grounds, but involving the same basic charges.

The circuit court again reversed the board, and ordered payment of Arms' $5,000 salary for the 1954-55 school year, which the board had refused to pay.

In April, 1956, embezzlement charges involving school funds were dismissed in a preliminary hearing because of insufficient evidence against Arms.

Arms later resigned as superintendent, but retained his job as principal. Emery then brought the new case against him in March, 1956.

Civil War Vet, 109, Clings to Thin Strand of Life

DULUTH, Minn. (U)—Albert Woolson, 109-year old sole survivor of the Grand Army of the Republic, clung to a thin strand of life early today in St. Luke's hospital here.

Attendants said the critical condition of the former drummer boy was unchanged since he lapsed into a coma at 4 a. m. EDT Saturday morning. He has not responded to treatment, but his soldier's heart refuses to quit.

Woolson, hospitalized since last Memorial Day, has been in an oxygen tent for several days. He was given nasal oxygen and intravenous injections after his relapse Saturday.

The sole survivor of the Union Army of the Civil War had been home from the hospital only a week when he returned Memorial Day. He was hospitalized six times during the past two years for treatment of lung congestion. Doctors had to remove fluid from his lungs because his aging heart could not pump the fluid out.

Woolson has been the Union Army's only survivor for several years. Three veterans of the Confederate Army, however, are still alive.

Water-Logged Capital

Illinois' first state capital now lies under water. The village of Kaskaskia, founded by a group of Jesuits in 1703, gradually disappeared under encroaching waters of the Mississippi after the capital was moved to Vandalia in 1820.

The Blonde Cried MURDER

By Brett Halliday

Copyright 1956 by Brett Halliday Distributed by NEA Service

THE STORY: Returning to his hotel to meet a frightened woman, Michael Shayne, the private detective, meets another woman in the lobby of his hotel. The second woman wants him to meet a man who is at the Silver Glade, a night spot nearby.

"THAT'S him. Please hurry so you'll be waiting outside when he comes out. Then follow him wherever he goes."

Shayne shook his red head bluntly. "Sorry, but I'm already working. And if it's a divorce job—"

"What does it matter to you what sort of job it is? I can pay you. How much? Please. It probably won't be more than half an hour." She was digging in her bag again, and came out with a roll of bills. She began to peel twenties off it, pausing on the fifth to look at Shayne hopefully, then detaching two more as he kept on shaking his head stubbornly.

He held the photograph out for her to take back, but she pushed it away, saying fiercely, "You can't refuse. He'll be gone before I can get anyone else." Her voice became tremulous with supplication, and she pressed herself close to him, looking up into his eyes beseechingly and pouting her too-red lips invitingly.

"Pretty please." She tried to force the seven bills into his hand.

He said, "No," shortly, wishing she were old enough to realize her too-blattant perfume wasn't as seductive as she probably imagined it to be. He pushed the man's photograph back into her hand and turned away impatiently, but she clung to him and tried to pull him back, sliding the photo into his jacket pocket and continuing to try and force the bills into his hand.

He kept on toward the desk, thrusting her aside impatiently, and she finally gave up and stood still, staring at him, her pale blue eyes glittering with fury.

"Fate was grinning widely. 'Sure got 'em fighting over you tonight, Mr. Shayne.'"

"Well, she's pretty all right, but you couldn't tell much about her, she was so scared." He lowered his voice and looked past Shayne. "This'n came in a few minutes ago, and she wanted to go up to your room to wait for you. But I wouldn't tell her."

"Fine," said Shayne impatiently. "Don't give her my number." He turned to the elevator where there was a car waiting.

10:06 P. M.

Shayne's first impression of the girl who cowered at the other end of his sitting room was that she was quite young and pretty, a honey-blonde, and practically frightened to death by his abrupt entrance.

She straightened herself, still tremulous as he closed the door firmly behind him, and asked quaveringly, "Are you Mr. Shayne?"

"Of course I'm Shayne," he said irritably. "This is my room. Who did you think would be coming in?"

"I didn't know. I've been so horribly frightened waiting. I thought he might have followed me here somehow."

Shayne said, "He?" She still stood flat against the wall as tho she were afraid she couldn't stand up without some support, and her whole body trembled as though gripped by an uncontrollable ague. "The man who—killed my brother," she gasped out.

"That is, I guess he did. I know he must have. If—if my brother is really dead. He must be. I saw him. I tell you. You'll believe me, won't you, Mr. Shayne? You won't think I'm crazy when I tell you?"

Shayne was close to her now. Close enough to stretch out a long arm, and take hold of one of her wrists and pull her gently away from the wall. He held her wrist tightly as he guided her to a deep chair and pressed her down into it. He made his voice calm and soothing as he said, "Of course I'll listen to you. What you need is a drink first. Close your eyes and relax. Stop worrying about anyone getting to you here."

HE let go her wrist and turned to the wall liquor cabinet near the kitchen. "Brandy or sherry?" "A little sherry, please." Her voice had lost its shrillness.

He got down a bottle of cocktail sherry and one of cognac, went into the small kitchen and reappeared a few minutes later with a tray holding wine glasses and a tumbler of ice water. He moved a small table close to the girl's chair, put the tray on it and poured her a glass of sherry.

"Drink that first—before you say anything else," he filled his own glass with cognac and took a pleased sip of it, regretfully remembering the untouched glass he'd left in Lucy's apartment. He pulled another chair around so that it faced her, sat in it and waited patiently until she had completely emptied her sherry glass.

"Now," he said. "Tell me about your brother. You say he's been murdered?" "Yes. I tell you I saw him. Lying there dead, right in front of my eyes. But he wasn't there when I came back. He was gone. Just vanished. She shuddered violently and flung out both hands. "But he couldn't be. Dead men can't just get up and walk away, can they?"

Too Much Moving

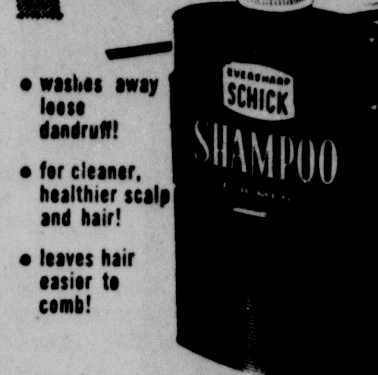

NEW YORK (U)—John Laakso was found sleeping in the wrong bed Sunday and blamed it all on a faulty memory.

Gertrude Neggesmith, 28, found the 42-year-old man in her bed when she arrived at her family's home. She awakened her father who called police. Laakso told the police he and his wife had moved so many times lately he couldn't remember exactly where they lived.

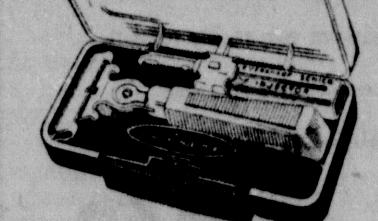

Because the ancient Nubian alphabet had only vague vowels, it can be read, but how it sounded can only be surmised, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Red Cross Seeks Nurses for Polio Duty in Chicago

An urgent immediate appeal for 12 registered nurses for polio duty in Chicago was made today by Mrs. John C. Humm, nursing chairman for Saline county chapter, following advice from Miss Kathryn Fitzpatrick, Red Cross Midwestern Area Nursing director, St. Louis, Mo., who said nursing reserves in Chicago are already strained and the need is increasing.

"There are now over 290 polio cases reported in the Chicago vicinity, and new cases are being admitted to hospitals at the rate of 10 to 15 patients each day," Miss Fitzpatrick said. "To assure adequate care, nurses must be recruited at once. The immediate need is for nurses at the Cook County Contagious and Municipal Contagious Hospitals in Chicago, and with the rising incidence additional nurses undoubtedly will be needed in the next several weeks."

"It is not our intention to drain nurses from our own community or out of duty in which they are vitally needed," Mrs. Humm said. "However, there are many registered nurses not active in the profession, and perhaps some can arrange their personal affairs to serve during this period when death or serious crippling may yet be prevented."

Miss Fitzpatrick reported that the request for Red Cross to recruit nurses was made by the hospitals and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. The foundation will pay the cost of transportation to Chicago and will provide maintenance in addition to salary while the nurse is serving in polio work.

All nurses available for polio duty are requested to contact the Saline county chapter, courthouse, telephone 703 for full details.

Accomplishments of 84th Congress At a Glance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here at a glance is what Congress did and didn't do during the Democratic-controlled 84th session which opened in January, 1955:

Major Bills Passed

FOREIGN AID — Appropriated $3,770,000,000 for the foreign aid program this year. This represented a sharp cut from the $4,900,000,000 President Eisenhower originally asked but was $1,000,000,000 more than was appropriated last year. Over the President's objections, Congress banned any new military aid for Yugoslavia.

FARM — Authorized the soil bank program the President sought as a new device to cut farm surpluses. Accepted presidential veto of a Democratic drive to restore farm price supports to 90 percent of parity.

HIGHWAYS — Authorized a 50 billion dollar highway construction program that will be the biggest public works project in history. The President accepted a Democratic-proposed plan to help finance the program with increased taxes. He originally had suggested a bond-financing plan.

DEFENSE — Gave the President all he wanted in the way of defense funds, plus an extra 900 million dollars for the Air Force which he didn't seek.

Enacted last year administration-proposed plan to vastly increase the size of the military reserve and extended the draft law.

SOCIAL SECURITY — Liberalized the social security program by lowering to 62 the retirement age for women and to 50 for the totally disabled. Increased social security taxes to pay for the expanded program. Administration opposed the bill.

FOREIGN POLICY — Voted last year to give the President a free hand in defending Formosa. Both houses this year passed resolutions opposing admission of Red China to the United Nations.

PAY — Raised salaries last year of members of Congress — from $15,000 to $22,500—postal and other government workers and members of the armed forces. This year increased the pay of cabinet members—from $22,500 to $25,000—and heads of many government agencies.

FLOOD INSURANCE — Approved a bill generally in line with Mr. Eisenhower's recommendations setting up a 7½ billion dollar federal flood insurance loan program.

Major Bills Killed

CIVIL RIGHTS — Administration program cleared the House but never got of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

POSTAL — Administration bill to increase postal rates passed House but was voted down in Senate committee.

AID FOR SCHOLL CONSTRUCTION — Administration bill to provide federal aid for school construction voted down by House after an anti-segregation amendment was added.

HEALTH — President's health reinsurance plan ignored but more funds were voted for medical research and hospitals.

NATURAL GAS — Passed a bill to exempt natural gas producers from federal controls but Mr. Eisenhower vetoed it.

ATOMIC ENERGY — House killed a Senate-approved bill, which the administration opposed, to authorize the government to lead the way in developing atomic power. Two administration bills to allow private industry to develop atomic power were allowed to die.

Congress did approve, however, construction of an atomic-powered merchant ship.

IMMIGRATION — No action taken on the President's proposals to liberalize the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act. A bill described as a "modest" step toward the President's goal was approved Friday by the Senate but it died in the House.

TAXES — Killed last year a Democratic proposal to cut individual income taxes and otherwise respect Eisenhower's request that there be no major tax cuts. A reduction in the tax on amusement admissions was passed, however.

Congress approved two major tax increases—in taxes on gasoline and other excise taxes on motorists to pay for new highway construction and in social security taxes.

POWER — Senate defeated Democratic bill authorizing a government-financed dam in Hells Canyon. The House killed the administration-favored Frying Pan-Arkansas reclamation project.

ELECTION — No action taken on bills to tighten election and lobbying laws.

Sen. Humphrey Enters

Democratic Race

For Vice Presidency

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota tossed his hat in the ring today as an avowed candidate for the Democratic vice presidential nomination. In a letter to Rep. Eugene D. McCarthy (D-Minn.), made public today, Humphrey said he is "willing" to have his friends "work actively" to win him the second spot on the Democratic ticket.

In a letter, dated a week ago today, Humphrey put a "certain definite qualification" on his willingness to serve. Stressing the need for a "united" party, Humphrey said "there must be no campaign against any other aspirant."

He underscored the words "campaign against."

AND ANOTHER, MARCIA — Marcia Valibus, who's this year's "Miss Miami Beach," has a bushel basketful of newspaper clippings to attest to her photogenic qualities. You guess where picture was taken.

Soap Box Derby Champion Boy, 13, Dies of Cancer

VALPARAISO, Ind. (AP) — Doug Hoback, 13-year-old Soap Box Derby champion, died Sunday afternoon from a lung cancer a little more than 24 hours after an accident at the Gary derby prevented him from competing in the race.

Doug "just gave up" after his racer was so badly damaged he had to drop out of competition. He said his father, W. Neil Hoback, said Doug has been "living for" the Gary race and a chance to qualify for the national derby at Akron, Ohio, Aug. 14.

Doug was weak after going without food for three days before the Gary race. He was rushed to Porter Memorial Hospital Sunday and died two hours later.

The boy qualified for the Gary derby July 4, when he won the Valparaiso derby although he had to be lifted in and out of his racer. Doctors had feared he would not be strong enough to compete at Gary.

itary strength between Israel and the Arab nations.

Eden announced his decisions to Parliament shortly after French Premier Guy Mollet branded Egyptian President Gamal Abdul Nasser an "apprentice dictator" in the Hitler style and demanded that the Western Allies make an "energetic and severe" reply to his action in seizing the canal.

Observers watched for developments as the British troopship Empire Force arrived in Aden with 1,700 servicemen for transit thru the canal.

Stock Markets Slump

In the economic sphere, cotton, industrial and oil shares dropped sharply on the Cairo stock exchange. In London, a general paralysis gripped the stock market, with oil shares slumping badly for a total cumulative loss of 308 million dollars and renewed pressure against the British pound. In Paris, the French franc continued to drop in value, a situation believed due largely to the canal seizure.

Two issues added heat to the three-power talks:

1. The outspoken fear by shippers that Egypt might turn back British ships because of the strict economic reprisals Britain took against Egypt Saturday. This would amount to violation of the Suez Canal treaties and would be the signal for military action.

2. Russia's growing outspokenness in praising the Egyptian seizure and condemning the West for its protest.

Authoritative sources said Britain and France were pressing the United States to join in the use of military force—including the huge U. S. 6th Fleet—if necessary.

A high American official said today he did not expect a decision "for perhaps 24 or 48 hours." The final word would have to come from Washington.

6th Fleet in Area

U. S. Navy headquarters in London confirmed that the 6th Fleet "always maintains a high state of readiness" but would not confirm reports it had been ordered on a standby alert.

"We are always on the alert," a Navy spokesman said.

He said the fleet normally included more than 30 ships, including aircraft carriers, cruisers, submarines and destroyers manned by more than 20,000 officers and men and a reinforced battalion of marines.

The American official said if Nasser does stop canal shipping then there would be "justification" for action. He did not elaborate but action presumably would include naval escort.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles already has given an implied warning to Egyptian President Gamal Abdul Nasser against interfering directly with the movement of ships through the canal.

"This would be a matter of deep concern to the United States as one of the maritime nations," he said Sunday.

Safety Deposit Box of Hodge Found Empty

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Prosecutors today opened a safety deposit box held by ex-State Auditor Orville E. Hodge and found it empty — "as expected."

Asst. State's Atty. J. Waldo Ackerman Jr. went to the Springfield Marine Bank with William Mehl, a Hodge employee and opened the deposit box, which had developed into one of the mysteries of the million dollar check scandal in Hodge's office.

Ackerman had been trying since last week to find the key to the box, held by Hodge, Mehl and Edward A. Epping, Hodge's office manager.

Mehl went to Granite City last week to get the key. His wife then reported he had suffered a nervous breakdown, could not find the key and could not return to Springfield immediately.

Later it was learned the key had been kept in the Hodge insurance agency at Granite City. The agency had been broken into by 10 men who ransacked it and apparently took only the key.

Mehl returned to Springfield today, without the key, and accompanied Ackerman to the bank.

The last entry to the deposit box registered at the bank was by Mehl on June 26. Since the box was entered after an investigation was started in the Hodge case, Ackerman said he did not expect to find anything in the box.

Mehl told Ackerman the box had held stocks and bonds belonging to Hodge.

Local Delegates Return from 5-Day FHA Camp

A group of area girls returned Friday night from Lake Bloomington, Ill. where they attended a five day training session of the Illinois Future Homemakers of America at East Bay camp.

They are Donna Wise, Harrisburg, Rita Teegarden, Equality, Brenda Pyle, Carrier Mills, Joan Burklow, Golconda, and Sue Bradley of Ridgway, all delegates of their local chapters, and Carla Stuby of Harrisburg, who is president of section No. 3 of the state of Illinois.

Approximately 600 girls attended the training session, representing 23 sections and 607 local high school chapters.

State Future Homemakers officers were elected to serve for the coming year. Faye Pritts of Bethany, Ill., was chosen president of the Association which represents more than 28,000 students in Illinois high schools.

Truman to Address Demo Convention

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler said Sunday that former President Harry S. Truman will address the Democratic national convention in Chicago Thursday night, Aug. 16.

Reduce Number of Missing Persons In Sinking of Liner

NEW YORK (AP) — The list of passengers unaccounted for as a result of the sinking of the Italian liner Andrea Doria was reduced to 29 today when 8 more persons believed missing informed the Italian line that they were alive.

The known dead and the presumed dead stood at 25, according to latest figures announced by line officials.

19 Mountain Climbers Fall; 1 Killed, 18 Hurt

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Nineteen teen-agers fell into a 40-foot deep crevasse high on the snow covered slopes of 11,225-foot Mt. Hood. One member of the mountain climbing party was killed and the others were injured, some critically.

Forest Service officials at the scene reported that the last of the injured had been brought down the mountainside to Timberline Lodge early today, about 12 hours after the group fell into the icy fissure.

The one dead was tentatively identified as 17-year-old Lynn Kaufman, Larchmont, N. Y. Most of the youths were from the New York area.

As the injured reached Timberline Lodge they were loaded into a fleet of ambulances that stood by throughout the night to rush them to Portland.

Officials at the scene said that at least 16 of the injured were stretcher cases. Some were injured critically, doctors said, and only one or two escaped with less than broken bones.

Medical personnel worked over the critically hurt as they were hauled above the lip of the crevasse, high on the mountainside. Literally tons of supplies were rushed up the mountain to the scene.

Planes dropped blood plasma and medical supplies at the scene Sunday night in response to frantic pleas from rescuers. Four doctors gave the survivors emergency treatment.

The accident was the worst in the history of the mountain, Oregon's tallest. One person was killed and nine seriously injured on the north slope of the mountain in an accident in 1927.

79 Dropped from Auditor's Payroll

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Lloyd Morey, new Illinois state auditor, today announced the resignations or firings of 79 more persons on the auditor's payroll.

The new action brought to 79 the number of persons who have been dropped from the payroll since Morey took over.

Those cut from the payroll today will mean a saving of $11,720 a month in payroll expenses, Morey said. Total payroll saving for all 79 persons dropped, he said, is $18,630 a month.

The U. S. Civil Service Commission stated today that Harrisburg will be the site of a written exam to fill the postmaster vacancy at Broughton, Ill., which pays an annual salary of $4,190.

According to the Civil Service Commission applicants may obtain their applications and copies of the exam announcement which state requirements for the position from the local post office or from the U. S. Civil Service Commission in Washington, D. C.

Applications should be filed with the Commission in the mails or postmarked not later than Aug. 21. Some weeks thereafter the written exam will be announced in Harrisburg.

Hodge Interested In Eldorado Oil Pool

patch. "I probably solicited the investment from him." He added that the price paid by Hodge was the same as that paid by other investors in the venture, asserting that "no favors were given to Hodge."

"Day is a long-time business associate of Stelle. The ex-Governor headed the corporation which built the Cahokia Downs race track near East St. Louis in 1954. Stelle had Day named managing director of the track, and when other business commitments led Stelle to resign as executive director of Cahokia Downs last year, Day took over supervision of the track's operations.

No Conflict of Interest

"Ralph Choisser is the steward assigned by the Illinois Racing Board to Cahokia Downs. He was emphatic in asserting that his association with Day in the oil venture created no conflict of interest and did not affect their work at the race track.

"My job," he explained, "is to check on licensed personnel connected with the actual running of races — horse owners, trainers, grooms, jockeys. Day supervises the track employees, the dining rooms and so forth. His job has nothing to do with mine, and he certainly has never tried to use our business association to influence me as steward."

"Paul Serdar, chairman of the State Racing Board, seconded the steward's view.

"When Choisser made his investment in the oil deal, he checked and cleared it with me," he told the Post-Dispatch. "I found that it was perfectly proper."

"Choisser said he 'couldn't get along with Stelle and Day' in the oil venture and their association, which was not a partnership but a joint operating agreement, was dissolved seven months ago."

Reds Beat Pirates Twice, Gain on Braves, Dodgers; Cardinals Shade Giants, 3-2

By United Press

The Cincinnati Reds today moved into a strong spot "to get healthy" while the Milwaukee Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers may slit each other's throats.

The Reds gained ground on both contenders when they beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-1 and 3-2, Sunday. Now they face the Braves and last-place New York Giants while the Braves and Dodgers play a four-game series. The Reds have an 11- season's edge over the Pirates, whom they meet tonight, and a 9-5 margin over the Giants.

Brooks Lawrence won his 15th game and Buster Freeman his eighth as the Reds beat the Pirates and sliced the first-place Braves' lead to 2-1-2 games. The Dodgers, four games behind Milwaukee, split a doubleheader with the Chicago Cubs while the Braves lost to the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-2.

Friend Takes Loss

Lawrence yielded only four hits and no walks in besting 12-game winner Bob Friend. The Reds backed him with a nine-single attack that included three blows by Ted Kluszewski. Smokey Burgess doubled home Gus Bell in the ninth inning to win the nightcap and extend the Reds' winning streak to four games.

Curt Simmons spun a six-hitter and struck out seven batters to give the Phillies their ninth victory in 15 meetings with Milwaukee. Roy Smalley's second triple of the game was the key blow of the Phillies' three-run eighth-inning rally that handed Warren Spahn his eighth defeat.

Don Newcombe scored his 15th win and the 100th of his career when Pee Wee Reese's eighth-inning homer gave the Dodgers a 1-0 verdict but three unearned runs helped the Cubs win the nightcap, 4-2.

Musial's Hit Decides

Stan Musial singled home Don Blasingame in the 10th as the St. Louis Cardinals shaded the Giants, 3-2, in the other NL game.

In the American League, the New York Yankees celebrated Manager Casey Stengel's birthday a day early with a 5-3 triumph over the Kansas City Athletics. Bill Skowron hit two homers and Hank Bauer one for the Yankees. Bob Turley fanned nine to win his fifth game for the Yankees, who still hold a nine-game lead over the second-place Cleveland Indians.

Herb Score pitched a four-hitter and Hank Aguirre a seven-hitter to enable the Indians to sweep the Baltimore Orioles, 3-0 and 4-0.

Billy Pierce became the first major league pitcher to win 16 games with an 11-2 victory as the Chicago White Sox swept their doubleheader with the Boston Red Sox by winning the nightcap, 6-3.

Dean Stone pitched a four-hitter to give the Washington Senators a 4-1 win after Billy Hoelt fanned 12 and pitched his third shutout of the year as the Detroit Tigers won their opener, 6-0.

Boy, 13, Wins Tennis Title

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Thirteen-year-old Bobby Siska, San Francisco, Calif., today lugged home the Western boys tennis title, the youngest player ever to wear the crown.

Siska, who was third-seeded in the week-long tourney, earned the title in Saturday's final by stopping Charles McKinley, St. Louis, 7-5, 6-1.

The junior championship went east with Donald Dell, Bethesda, Md., after a rugged four-hour battle against Norman Perry, Los Angeles, Calif. Dell was extended to five sets before ousting Perry, 6-1, 5-7, 6-4, 0-6, 6-4.

MUD IN THEIR TRY—Deep, sloppy going didn't stop British runners in the Interservice Championships at Royal Air Force Stadium in Middlesex. Aircraftman Marty Firth, last here, won the three-mile. Cpl. B. B. Heatley, 128, on top at this stage, ran second. Cpl. S. S. Eldon, 131, second here, finished third.

THE DOWNSTATE FISHERMAN'S GUIDE: Heavy Rains Improve Bass Fishing

By Pete Brown
(From reports by the Southern Illinois University Cooperative Fisheries Research Laboratory and the Illinois Department of Conservation.)

Recent heavy rains have improved bass fishing at Little Grassy and Crab Orchard as well as catfishing on the Big Muddy River. Some excellent channel cat catches have been reported on the Big Muddy, and as long as the water level remains high success can be expected to continue.

Poppers are accounting for two and three pounders at Little Grassy, although in no numbers comparable to the boom there earlier this season. Crappie fishing, which has been good for the past three weeks, continue to be productive.

For the first time in nearly a month, bass are starting to show up on the stringers of Crab Orchard fishermen. The water is clear and medium sized bigmouth are taking the traditional deep running hardware.

Crappie fishing is picking up at Horseshoe Lake (the one in Alexander, not Madison county). Minnow anglers are making good catches in the eight to 12 inch category.

Lake Murphysboro's hordes of bluegill are still on the chase, but if you're looking for anything else, try another spot. Accidental surprises for the minnow and roach fishermen include occasional channel cat and warmouth. The most recent full-day census showed no crappie taken at all.

Further corroborating the successes of boat fishermen at Lake Murphysboro have been a series of shocker and netting surveys conducted by an SIU researcher. Literally bushels of bluegill and redear sunfish have been turned up, and many of the redear were termed "quite large."

A redear sunfish, incidentally, is a species not overly common in southern Illinois outside of Lake Murphysboro. Known commonly as a "shellcracker," the redear grows up to three quarters of a pound and exhibits many of the characteristics of bluegill. However, some fishermen believe it to be more vigorous than bluegill. The fish's name derives from a red-dish colored operculum. The body area is more brown than the blue-gill.

Redear sunfish are just as tasty—some say more so—than bluegill. Experiments hybridizing bluegill and redear have produced a superior species showing more "vigor" and growth potential than either of the parents. None of these are loose in area fishing waters.

Because of the redear's attributes (a lower reproductive rate makes it a promising management fish) the SIU Fisheries Laboratory, supported by the Illinois Department of Conservation, is experimenting with redear in four farm ponds. Should the studies bear out estimates of this species' population growth, we'll probably see some widely distributed stocking.

St. Louis, Notre Dame, Dayton Quit Sugar Bowl

NEW ORLEANS — St. Louis, Notre Dame and Dayton Saturday withdrew from the Sugar Bowl basketball tournament here next December because of a new Louisiana segregation law banning mixed athletic contests.

The action left only Kentucky still planning to come. Wildcat Coach Adolph Rupp said "we will be there according to our contract with them." Four schools were invited originally.

There were rumors that the tournament might be called off entirely. Sugar Bowl authorities would not comment on what the action by the three schools would mean to the event. They said the situation would be discussed at a meeting of the organization's basketball meeting soon.

Paul E. DeBlanc, president of the Mid-Winter Sports Association which sponsors a weeklong carnival of sports here, including the basketball tournament and a New Year's Day football game, said "we must refrain from any statement until the basketball committee can meet to consider the matter."

DeBlanc said "officials of the three institutions contended the new law denies students regularly enrolled and eligible under conference and national intercollegiate athletic rules the opportunity to represent their schools."

Dark is Giants' No. One Nuisance

NEW YORK — Alvin Dark is earning a reputation as his former teammates' "Public Nuisance No. 1" since the St. Louis Cardinals acquired him June 14 from the New York Giants.

In eight games against the Giants since then, Dark has rapped off 15 hits in 32 trips for a .468 average. He had four hits in five tries Sunday as the Cardinals beat the Giants, 3-2.

The Cardinals, incidentally, have beaten the Giants six times in eight games since the big trade.

Former Indiana U. Athletic Great Dies

TOLEDO, Ohio — Uremic poisoning following a heart attack is blamed for the death of Ralph (Buck) Weaver, former all-time great athlete at Indiana University.

Weaver died here Sunday at the age of 50. He was a standout wrestler and football end at Indiana between 1927 and 1929 and later gained fame as a professional wrestler.

Weaver suffered the heart attack and poisoning July 16, two nights after he wrestled at Montpelier, Ind. Services were to be held at Terre Haute, Ind.

Dr. Phog Allen, Mikan to Highlight SIU Coaching Clinic

CARBONDALE, Ill.—Two of the greatest names in basketball, Dr. P. C. (Phog) Allen, retired cage coach from the University of Kansas, and George Mikan of the Minneapolis Lakers, will highlight the two-day eighth annual summer coaching clinic at Southern Illinois University Aug. 16-17.

Featured football speakers at the clinic will be SIU grid coach Al Kaval, W. W. Downing, principal and former coach at the East St. Louis Sr. High School, and E. L. (Doc) Benincin, former Murphysboro High School grid mentor. Alex Saudargas, head coach at West Rockford—winner of the Illinois prep cage title for the past two years—rounds out the list of speakers.

Allen has served as head basketball coach at the University of Kansas for the past 39 years, his teams winning outright or sharing 24 conference championships. He is known as the dean of all basketball coaches, his 49-year coaching record showing 771 games won compared to 233 losses—a .768 percentage. In 39 years at the University of Kansas, his teams won 581, while losing only 219.

Mikan, who is known as "Mr. Basketball," holds many professional scoring records. In his nine seasons of professional play, he scored 11,764 points—an average of 22.6 points per game. Mikan retired in 1954 to take over as general manager of the Lakers, but returned last season to play in 37 games.

Downing's East St. Louis football squad posted 32 straight victories before Downing stepped up to the principal position in 1954. Saudargas' West Rockford club had identical 281 records the past two seasons.

Kaval, a former All-Big Ten and All-American from Northwestern University, formerly was head football coach at Temple University in Philadelphia. Benincin's grid teams at Murphysboro High School posted an overall record of 76 wins, 10 losses, and 7 ties.

More than 200 coaches are expected at the clinic.

See Last Trip for Dodgers' Old Pros; Roseboro May Succeed Campanella

NEW YORK (NEA)—There are competent observers who believe that the old pros who are the Dodgers will win one more pennant, but this could be the last run for the elder members of the party.

The aging Brooks could fall flat on their faces, too, as they have clearly demonstrated this season against the Braves and Reds.

It easily could turn out that the triumvirate running the Brooklyn franchise made the fatal mistake of letting a club grow old on them. You can bet that had Branch Rickey remained in Flatbush, more than one of the veterans would be playing out the string elsewhere. Mahatma would have put them on the market at a stage where he could get something for them.

The older Superbas have been together longer than they care to remember. They've played a lot of hard baseball, which is shown by their record. Pee Wee Reese and Jackie Robinson are 37, Roy Campanella and Carl Furillo 34, Gil Hodges 32.

Most ballplayers start to tail off at 32. They lose that step. Their reflexes in the field aren't quite as sharp.

Usually, the good hitter continues to whack the ball as long as his legs hold out, but you'd never know that by looking at the Dodgers' averages — Campanella, .212; Hodges, .238; Reese, .245; Robinson, .268.

THE DODGERS BEING cuffed by the guys most likely to beat them this season is additional evidence that Campanella, as this department has known all along, is their indispensable man. A lot of folks believed Duke Snider was, but the slugging outfielder, who has been off this trip, too, doesn't nurse the pitchers. The Brooks' record coincides with the burly backstop's alternate good and bad years.

There are schooled baseball men who suspect that Campanella may be as washed up as Ezzard Charles, but they said the same thing in 1954, when he underwent an operation for the removal of a bone chip from the back of his left hand. Now he suffers pain gripping a bat because of a bone spur in the joint of the right thumb.

The productive Brooklyn chain has had a serious shortage of catchers. Now, Walter O'Malley, Buzzy Bavasi, Fresno Thompson & Co. believe they have one in Johnny Roseboro, a left-hand batter with Montreal. The trouble is that young Roseboro may be a year or two away.

PAUL KRICHELL TALKS to his boy, Whitey Ford, before each start at Yankee Stadium. "Remember what I told you about a big game," the venerable chief of Bomber scouts reminds the left-hander. "The white shirts in center field, the tenseness of the other guys."

Ford turned in a masterpiece, edging Billy Pierce and the White Sox, 2-1, with a three-hitter before 61,351, the largest crowd of the campaign in either league.

"The bigger the game the easier it is to win," says Krichell, the old catcher who has found key Yankees down through the years. I've demonstrated this in World Series with Maris Russo, Hank Borowy, Bill Bevens, Ford and other pitchers. When the other side is pressing, and he has the big crowd and white-shirt background, all a pitcher has to do is be natural—get a piece of the plate with his fast and breaking ball. He's crazy trying to pitch to spots and weaknesses. That only gets him behind the hitter."

Come to think of it, that's all an accomplished pitcher has to do on any occasion but, with true Yankee thoroughness, Paul Krichell sees to it that his boys have the main idea before they make a mistake.

One Death in Le Mans Auto Race

LE MANS, France (AP)—New safety devices were credited today with limiting the death toll in this year's 24-hour Le Mans auto race to one, compared with the 83 deaths in last year's race. However, a record number of cars failed to finish.

Ninian Sanderson and Ron Flockhart of Scotland emerged the winners of the classic Sunday in a Jaguar that averaged 104.487 miles per hour.

Professor's Experience Reflects Phenomenal Growth of Southern

TODAY IN ILLINOIS
By Jack Harr

The professor fingered the Phi Beta Kappa key on his watch chain and blinked at the hot sun. "I've been here at Southern Illinois University for 28 years," he said. "The other day I spotted a new faculty member and I introduced myself. Come to find out the man has been here for two years. It was embarrassing."

Better than a boatload of statistics, the professor's experience illustrates the phenomenal growth of SIU campus in Carbondale that is taking place on the at-dale.

The new man the professor met is one of 150 added to the faculty in the last two years, making a total of more than 600. This coming fall, the student body will pass the 6,000 mark, more than double the 1951 enrollment.

A building program is going on in a frantic effort to keep pace with the growth in the student body, which may number more than 15,000 some years hence. Seven structures or additions have been completed since 1951, and the cornerstone of the new agriculture building was laid in June by Governor Stratton. Even so, temporary structures dot the campus.

School Serves Community

But far more impressive than any kind of physical growth is the unique role SIU serves in its area.

In every department of the university where it is feasible, the professors have stepped out of the ivory towers and have gone to work to serve the community—not just Carbondale, but the entire southern third of the state.

Under the leadership of President Delyte W. Morris, a native of Southern Illinois, these activities have crystallized into what is called the "area services division" of SIU.

A prime example of the work of this division is the community development program operated by a trained team of 11 people headed by Richard Poston. Working only in towns where they have been invited to come in, Poston's crew does an amazing job of helping people help themselves. Problems are analyzed candidly and effective group action is undertaken to attack the problems. The Poston treatment has been initiated in 41 communities and two more are to be added this fall.

Aid To Small Business

Another example of "area services" lies in SIU's Small Business Institute, operated by R. Ralph Bedwell and a staff of three experienced men. In addition to offering a practical curriculum for students planning to enter small business, the Institute organizes seminars at various places in the region for businessmen. On more than 50 occasions in the past year, the Institute has given free technical advice to businessmen who have asked for it, often drawing on

Probers Attack Secrecy by Gov't Agencies

WASHINGTON (AP)—House investigators said today a "paper curtain" of secrecy has enveloped government information and it is up to Congress to tear it down.

They recommended in their first interim report that the suppression of information should be subject to court appeal with the burden of proof resting on the official who tried to keep it secret.

The report by the Government Operations subcommittee, headed by Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.), said that "slowly, almost imperceptibly, a paper curtain . . . now may layers thick . . . has developed over a 30-year period."

"Behind this curtain," the subcommittee said, "lies an attitude novel to democratic government—an attitude which says that we, the officials, not you, the people, will determine how much you are to be told about your government."

The subcommittee said no one administration or party is at fault. But it nevertheless had some sharp criticism for present government agencies, the Defense Department, Commerce's Business Advisory Committee and the Office of Strategic Information in particular.

The subcommittee, which resumes its hearings in September, said Congress should establish "uniform rules on information practices" requiring full disclosure except for specific exemptions defined by statute.

Too Many Drivers Sure They're 'Safe'

CHICAGO (AP)—There are too many "safe drivers" on the road, an automobile industrialist says.

"If there were fewer of them we would have fewer accidents," said Howard F. Leopold, president of Ero Manufacturing Co.

Most drivers consider themselves "safe," he said, and "when they have an accident it's the other fellow's fault."

The best way to avoid accidents is to avoid being cocksure of your own driving ability, he added.

Leopold, who has been making automobile parts and accessories since the turn of the century, offered the following advice to motorists.

1. Be modest about your own driving abilities.
2. Follow the traffic laws and the rules of common sense.
3. Use modern safety equipment.

brainpower in other departments of the university in order to give the best answers to the problems.

SIU agricultural specialists are studying the soil and farm economy of the region, and aiding in conservation practices. The Speech and Hearing clinic serves the community, the university orchestra tours the area, psychological testing facilities are available to citizens, and guidance for local schools and governments is offered. SIU has an extension program, and a trade school in an area where many men need to learn new trades.

Most Students From Area

Not to be obscured by the value of area services is the main business of SIU or any university, that of providing a higher education for qualified young people. Yet, even in this sphere, SIU serves its area uniquely. More than 80 percent of its students come from the southern third of Illinois.

This becomes particularly significant when one considers that SIU is the only fully-accredited institution of higher education in the southern third of the state—while the northern two-thirds has more colleges and universities than the entire British Isles.

For one thing, this means that the expansion of tax-supported SIU is being carried on without detriment to any neighboring private colleges. For another, it means that young people from an area that is lagging economically are able to attend a nearby state university with low tuition rates. Pool of Specialists

What has happened is that SIU has filled a gap in its area that desperately needed filling. It provides a pool of trained specialists to serve the region, people who are willing to work long extra hours because they believe that what they are doing is of real aid. Their services could not have been brought successfully to the people of Southern Illinois in any framework except that of a university.

SIU is the cultural and intellectual focal point of its area, an institution in which Southern Illinoisans can and do take great pride. It is turning out many graduates who will stay and work in their region to help in its development.

Perhaps no where else in the nation have the needs of an area and the activities of a state university meshed so well. Those who were responsible back in 1943 for converting what had been a state teacher's college for 69 years into a new state university were gifted with remarkable foresight.

A BUMPER CROP OF BEAUTY. Pictured above are the contestants for the title of "Miss Saline County of 1956", who will be crowned at the 8th annual Saline County Beauty Pageant, sponsored by the Harrisburg Junior Chamber of Commerce, at the Saline County Fair Thursday night, August 2nd, at 8:00 p. m. Each girl is sponsored by a business firm of Saline County.

The entrants will be judged in formals and in bathing suits, and will be allotted points in five categories: Features, Proportions, Personality, Poise, and Posture. During the intermission of this year's show, while the girls are changing from formals to bathing suits, a new feature will be presented to take the place of the new car show of previous years. This year the Jaycees will proudly present an antique auto show, with ancient gas buggies from collector's clubs at Carmi, Fairfield, and Evansville, Ind., being displayed. The antique cars promise to be a colorful, entertaining sight for the audience, which is always one of the largest crowds at the fair.
